Master Custom Builder Council of Tennessee Hosts Charity Tour of Homes

Nashville, TN – Over two weekends in October, the Master Custom Builder Council (MCBC) of Tennessee will host the 2010 Charity Tour of Homes, featuring seven custom-built homes scattered throughout the Greater Nashville area. The seven homeowners participating have each selected a charity that will benefit from ticket sales. A single ticket ensures entry to each home.

The homes, which range from “boulevard” jewels to lakefront gems, are located in Nashville (600 Belle Park Circle, 642 Belle Park Circle, 604 Belle Park Circle, and 4400 Franklin Road), Franklin (509 Legends Ridge Court), Hendersonville (214 Bluegrass Drive), and Gallatin (1124 Landing Court). The charities that will benefit are the Neuroscience Center of the St. Thomas Foundation, the Hendersonville Samaritan Association, YMCA of Middle Tennessee, Nashville Area Habitat for Humanity, Family & Children’s Service, High Hopes, and KIPP Academy Nashville.

The 2010 Charity Tour of Homes will be held October 15, 16, and 17, and October 22, 23, and 24. Tickets, which are $15, can be purchased on-site at the homes during the tour dates, or in advance at the following locations: Kenny & Co., 303 11th Avenue South, Nashville (615-782-8000); Grahams Lighting, 244 Cool Springs Boulevard, Franklin (615-771-3400); Werthan Tile, 4004 Hillsboro Pike, Nashville (615-460-9655); Cenwood Appliance, 4015 Armory Oaks Drive, Nashville (615-256-8686); Fergusons Bath and Kitchen Gallery, 3201 Powell Avenue, Nashville (615-385-3054); or Dale Inc., 915 6th Avenue South, Nashville (615-254-3454).

“We’re pleased to be able to offer Middle Tennesseans the chance to view what we think are some of the finest examples of custom-home building in the area,” says MCBC builder Bob Shaw, of McPherson-Shaw, Inc., in Hendersonville. “And in today’s economy, it’s heartening to see that home building is still going strong. We’re also proud that we can give back to the community by supporting some of the area’s fine charities.”

Details about the 2010 Charity Tour of Homes, including a map of the homes’ locations, can be found at <http://customhomesnashville.com/tennessee-charity-tour-homes>, or by calling (615) 878-1803.

The Master Custom Builders Council (MCBC) of Tennessee is an elite group of the finest custom-home builders in the state. Originally brought together to leverage their buying power to provide more cost savings and increase the service level for their clients, the group quickly found honesty, integrity, and the betterment of the community to be cornerstones of the organization. Continuously educating themselves on the newest industry trends and technologies, the group also relies on their 100-plus years of combined construction experience. MCBC of Tennessee believes that consumers should ask a lot from their builder. Because of this, we ask a lot of ourselves.
